This is a website for an imaginary website. It contains stock images of food and is the final project for my class in HTML. The purpose is to demonstrate some of what I have learned in class and what I have learned on my own. This is aimed to my professor as he is the one grading this assignment.

- | — Food_Place.html
- | — Stylesheet.css

These are the two main files. Several picture files are not particularly important and are not named in this paper but are displayed on the site.
